

discovered that young Tushinsky was the illegitimate son of Alexander Priboi, the wife of a bookbinder living near the home of Vera Tushinsky, the mother of a boy, Eugene, a playmate of the murdered youngster.

The home of the Tushinsky woman was the resort of thieves and evildoers of all kinds, a sort of headquarters for a band of outlaws of the neighborhood. Near this house, Mitchell found some half-burned clothing that had belonged to young Tushinsky and several scraps of paper bearing the names of certain notorious criminals.

This trail seemed in a fair way to lead to the outlaws as the perpetrators of the murder, but orders were summarily issued to Mitchell to discontinue that line of inquiry and devote himself to disclosing the character of the young man upon the body of whom had been the victim of "ritual murder."

THOUSANDS PLEADED FOR THE PRISONER.

The alleged reason for the order to the detective was that Col. Koukushnik had entered into a compact with the criminals of Kieff who, in order to minimize crime in the city, they were to refrain from their operations there but were not to be hampered by the police if they confined their evil deeds to the surrounding territory.

Mitchell, however, refused to obey the orders and was discharged and placed on trial for insubordination. He was found guilty and sentenced to a year's imprisonment. But he had succeeded in convincing himself at least that the murder of the Tushinsky boy had been planned to inflame the people against the Jews and had been committed in the house of the outlaw Romanuk.

After the elimination of Mitchell a number of well known criminals were allowed opportunities to talk with the imprisoned Bellis, and one of them, Kanchenko, after his release, stated that Bellis had agreed to give him a large sum of money to poison two Government witnesses and bribe a third. The Tushinsky woman said that Jews had offered her $5,000 rubles if she would take on her household the responsibility for the murder.

Bellis, from the day he was arrested, had maintained his innocence of the crime. He denied knowing anything about "ritual murder" and declared himself to be not even a consistent follower of the Jewish faith, as it was his custom to worship on Saturdays.

Pettigrew, signed by thousands of the most influential men of Great Britain, France, Germany and of Russia itself, have been sent to the Russian authorities in behalf of Bellis. These petitions have been so earnest that it is said that the Russian authorities would have been glad to drop the case long ago if it had been possible to do so and "save their faces."

FIFTH RITUAL MURDER TRIAL IN TWENTY-FIVE YEARS.

The Bellis trial was the fifth "ritual murder" case charged against the Jews in the last twenty-five years. Invariably these charges have been the climax to a wave of anti-Semitism or were brought to rekindle the fires of hatred against the Jews when persecutions were at their height.

After two years of more or less continuous pogroms, endless persecutions and indescribable horrors in Russia that seem incredible in the twentieth century, Bellis was charged with "ritual murder" when the bitter racial and religious anti-Jewish wave is waning from exhaustion in the land of the Great White Bear.

The first time in the last half century that there was staged in a tribunal of justice the legendary medieval superstition that Jews drew the blood of Christian children with which to knead the dough of their Easter cakes at Easter time occurred in 1882. It came at the height of an anti-Jewish wave in Hungary when a young girl, Esther Solomons, was literally butchered at Tians-Kenler. It was charged to the Jews as a "ritual murder," as if they had merely sought for another opportunity to draw upon their heads still greater racial and religious hatred and persecutions.

When the anti-Semitic wave was at its height in Germany in 1901 and again in 1903, a boy at Kanton and one at Konitz were murdered. Jews were charged with "ritual murder." Shortly after the "ritual murder" of the Catholic organization, not identical with the Social Democrats, spread from Vienna to Bohemia and stirred up a bitter anti-Jewish movement, two peasants were murdered. The bodies were terribly mutilated. Five boys, "Jewish ritual murder" was immediately raised and Leopold Illusier, a half-witted Jewish cripple whom either of the girls could have handled with one hand, was charged with the crime. The charges, naturally, were brought by "Christians."

In the Tians-Kenler case the prosecution's sole evidence was the testimony of an eleven-year-old boy. He said he peeked through the keyhole of a door and saw the nude body of the girl lying on the altar in the synagogue. The head of the altar, the rabbi, the boy with the rabbi by his side, stood in front of the altar. Around it were a number of high church officials. The rabbi raised his arms and blessed the action. While the others were singing a psalm, the "Schachet," or Jewish butcher of the community, stepped forward, deftly cut off the head of the girl and caught the blood in a vessel; the boy said.

In the Polna "ritual murder" case in Bohemia, it was impossible to make it appear that the half-witted cripple Illusier was the official representative of the Jewish communities and that he had killed the two girls under direction or instigation of the rabbi. The theory was then advanced that there is a "secret cult" or society among the Jews which requires blood of Christian children for their rites.

This belief still prevails very generally among the ignorant population of Austria, Hungary, Poland, Russia and even parts of Germany. Anti-Jewish agitators, particularly in Russia, have always availed themselves of this belief and feeling to fan the flames of hatred and persecutions against the Jews.

Runaway Boys Found. John Lettley and Ralph Miller, two Philadelphia boys, who gave their ages as seventeen, but who look like they might be approaching their thirtieth birthdays, were sent to the Gerry Society at Rockland, N. J., by the Tombs Court to await word from their parents. The boys were arrested last night at Grand street and the Bowery asleep and hungry on a door step.

REFUGEES HERE TELL OF HORRORS IN MEXICAN CITY

Women and Starving Babies on Train 14 Days, Making Only 300 Miles.

ALL IN SCANT ATTIRE.

Picked Up Material on Way and Stopped to Build a Bridge.

Nineteen refugees on the Ward Line Guantánamo, most of them Americans, arrived this morning from Tampico, Mexico, having been obliged to flee from the interior for their lives. Eight women were in the party. The majority of the party were from Torreon in the State of Coahuila, where they had been engaged in mining or farming. E. M. Fletcher and his wife and their six-year-old son were among the refugees, having fled to Tampico, where they went aboard the Guantánamo and were cared for by Capt. Seeley.

Axel Ferdinand Linder, manager of a sugar plantation near Torreon, left when he could no longer stand it. He would take on his household the responsibility for the murder.

Bellis, from the day he was arrested, had maintained his innocence of the crime. He denied knowing anything about "ritual murder" and declared himself to be not even a consistent follower of the Jewish faith, as it was his custom to worship on Saturdays.

Pettigrew, signed by thousands of the most influential men of Great Britain, France, Germany and of Russia itself, have been sent to the Russian authorities in behalf of Bellis. These petitions have been so earnest that it is said that the Russian authorities would have been glad to drop the case long ago if it had been possible to do so and "save their faces."

After two years of more or less continuous pogroms, endless persecutions and indescribable horrors in Russia that seem incredible in the twentieth century, Bellis was charged with "ritual murder" when the bitter racial and religious anti-Jewish wave is waning from exhaustion in the land of the Great White Bear.

The first time in the last half century that there was staged in a tribunal of justice the legendary medieval superstition that Jews drew the blood of Christian children with which to knead the dough of their Easter cakes at Easter time occurred in 1882. It came at the height of an anti-Jewish wave in Hungary when a young girl, Esther Solomons, was literally butchered at Tians-Kenler. It was charged to the Jews as a "ritual murder," as if they had merely sought for another opportunity to draw upon their heads still greater racial and religious hatred and persecutions.

When the anti-Semitic wave was at its height in Germany in 1901 and again in 1903, a boy at Kanton and one at Konitz were murdered. Jews were charged with "ritual murder." Shortly after the "ritual murder" of the Catholic organization, not identical with the Social Democrats, spread from Vienna to Bohemia and stirred up a bitter anti-Jewish movement, two peasants were murdered. The bodies were terribly mutilated. Five boys, "Jewish ritual murder" was immediately raised and Leopold Illusier, a half-witted Jewish cripple whom either of the girls could have handled with one hand, was charged with the crime. The charges, naturally, were brought by "Christians."

In the Tians-Kenler case the prosecution's sole evidence was the testimony of an eleven-year-old boy. He said he peeked through the keyhole of a door and saw the nude body of the girl lying on the altar in the synagogue. The head of the altar, the rabbi, the boy with the rabbi by his side, stood in front of the altar. Around it were a number of high church officials. The rabbi raised his arms and blessed the action. While the others were singing a psalm, the "Schachet," or Jewish butcher of the community, stepped forward, deftly cut off the head of the girl and caught the blood in a vessel; the boy said.

In the Polna "ritual murder" case in Bohemia, it was impossible to make it appear that the half-witted cripple Illusier was the official representative of the Jewish communities and that he had killed the two girls under direction or instigation of the rabbi. The theory was then advanced that there is a "secret cult" or society among the Jews which requires blood of Christian children for their rites.

This belief still prevails very generally among the ignorant population of Austria, Hungary, Poland, Russia and even parts of Germany. Anti-Jewish agitators, particularly in Russia, have always availed themselves of this belief and feeling to fan the flames of hatred and persecutions against the Jews.

Runaway Boys Found. John Lettley and Ralph Miller, two Philadelphia boys, who gave their ages as seventeen, but who look like they might be approaching their thirtieth birthdays, were sent to the Gerry Society at Rockland, N. J., by the Tombs Court to await word from their parents. The boys were arrested last night at Grand street and the Bowery asleep and hungry on a door step.

Prisoner Acquitted of Ritual Murder And Members of His Family

MENDALL BELLIS AND HIS FAMILY.

by Villa, who was suspicious of our good intent. We convinced him that we were leaving our various businesses as security and that all we had in the world was centered in Torreon, and he let us go.

HAD TO STOP TO BUILD A NEW BRIDGE. "On the way to Monterey we found a railroad of bridge building material on a siding. Figuring it might come in handy we halted onto it. It was a lucky thought, for at Lake Mayran we found a thirty-two foot bridge blown away by the retreating Federalists. With the material we had confiscated we succeeded in rebuilding a makeshift bridge in two days, although there wasn't a civil engineer in the party. From there on we had a harder time. There was a canal and four Mexican laborers travel along in front of us as a scout.

"Imagine our surprise when, passing the troop trains bound north for an attempt to retake Torreon, we should reach Monterey just about the same time as our families, who had started fourteen days before." Fletcher is in the lumber business and had been in Mexico thirteen years. He is a native of Texas and his wife is from Milwaukee, Wis., where they are bound for a visit before considering whether or not they shall go back to Mexico.

"American intervention is the only thing possible to save Mexico and the interests of the 40,000 American business men who are showing the Mexicans how to develop their own country," said Fletcher. "The Mexicans cannot govern themselves unless under an iron-handed ruler such as Porfirio Diaz. Why, already there is a counter-revolutionary junta established for the purpose of declaring a revolution against Carranza should he be installed in place of Huerta. There will be a revolution after revolution for a thousand years, unless America steps in or another Diaz is born."

"As for arming Carranza or any other faction and telling them to go ahead and beat Huerta out of Mexico, that is the height of folly. It means merely providing Mexicans with arms and ammunition to fight us in the end."

WILSON TELLS GREAT BRITAIN HIS STAND ON HUERTA. (Continued from First Page.)

two City and said that he expected a reply to his message shortly. Lind's instructions have been to keep the President fully informed of everything that transpires and he is doing so.

But he has steadfastly refrained from making any positive demand on Huerta for an answer to his representations within a certain time. That is left to the discretion of the Provisional President, but it is believed that an answer will be forthcoming not later than Wednesday.

The report that agents of the Huerta Government had made representations to Lind and O'Shaughnessy regarding alleged atrocities on the part of the Carranza forces in the field was also officially denied to-day. Nothing of the kind has taken place and none is looked for.

The President conferred at length with John Bassett Moore, counselor of the State Department, to-day. Moore is an expert on international law and has been handling the purely legal phases of the situation. He has also been investigating the report that much of the Huerta strength comes

TWO MEN CRUSHED TO DEATH UNDER 12 TONS OF EARTH

Platform in Subway Shaft Loosened by Rain Falls While Being Jacked Up.

The lives of two men were crushed out today in the subway shaft which is being sunk in Broadway opposite Waverley place on the site of "Old London Street," once a landmark in the city. The two men were Charles Thompson, twenty-five, of No. 141 Westman place, Jersey City, who was in charge of the timber work about the shaft, and an Italian laborer known only as "No. 21." They were crushed under a loading platform upon which were twelve tons of dirt awaiting loading. The accident was due to the undermining of the platform's supports by the severe rain of yesterday.

Superintendent W. G. Thompson of the contracting firm, and a brother of one of the dead men, saw when work was started to-day that some of the supports of the platform had been made insecure by the rain, and Charles Thompson was called to arrange for its readjustment. Thompson and "No. 21" made an investigation from the outside and then crawled under the platform. They had been there only a few minutes when the structure crumbled and fell upon them. Superintendent Thompson was standing at the edge of the shaft when it fell. He at once called to the shovellers working near and while they dug at the load of earth he tried to drag his brother out by the leg, which protruded from the pile of dirt. This he was unable to do and it was not until the Bremen of Truck in Mercer street arrived and gave the assistance that the two men were taken out.

Both had been killed instantly.

SAYS AUTO NOT WORTH POEMS HE HAD TO HEAR

But Prosperous Looking Man Is Locked Up on Complaint of Artist's Wife.

George Lambert Lewis, a fine looking man with gray hair and beard, tall, heavily set and looking like a prosperous lawyer or doctor, though the police say he is known to them as Dr. Camp, Eggleston and Lambert, as well as his latest name, was arrested at Fifth avenue and Twenty-fifth street this afternoon by Detective McMahon of the West Sixty-eighth street station. Mrs. George H. Barrett, wife of the artist, of No. 305 West Seventy-second street, told the police he bought her automobile about fifteen days ago, paying $100 on account and promising to pay $1,500 more. Since then she has not seen him or the money.

"If she gave it to me outright it wouldn't pay me for the time I spent listening to her read her poems, to her discussions on religion and reading the Christian Science books she kept forcing on me."

Nevertheless Lewis was locked up.

FINED FOR LOCKING DOOR TO FIRE ESCAPE

Judge Sorry He Cannot Inflict More Than $50 Punishment on Owner.

Isaac Schreiber, who employs thirty-one people in a clothing factory on the third floor at No. 11 Allen street, was fined $20 today in the Court of Special Sessions for keeping a door leading to the fire escape locked. The offense was committed on Sept. 29.

An Inspector of the Fire Prevention Bureau visited the factory on that date and found the door locked. The purpose of locking the door was to prevent fire from spreading from the factory to the street. The inspector testified to-day that it took five minutes to find the key.

"This is a flagrant case," remarked Justice Salmon, "but the law prohibits us from inflicting a fine of more than $50. In case of a fire in this factory the key to the door leading to the fire escape would probably not have been found at all, but the limitation of $50 in a fine is binding."

SUBWAY BIDS OPENED. Commission Gets Figures on Section of Seventh Avenue Tube.

Bids were opened to-day by the Public Service Commission for the construction of Section No. 3 of Route No. 4 and No. 35, the Seventh avenue subway in Manhattan. This section lies in Varick street and the Seventh avenue extension, between Beach street on the south and Commerce street on the north. There will be a four-track railroad. The cost of the work will be met by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, which is to operate the line.

The Seventh avenue subway leaves the existing subway at Times Square, Varick street and other streets to the Battery and Brooklyn.

EASTERN TRAINMEN WIN WAGE INCREASE, WALL STREET REPORTS

Though Arbitrators' Award Is Not Yet Fixed, Men Are Credited With Victory.

Although announcement had been made that the award of the Board of Arbitration in the wage dispute between the Eastern railroads and their conductors and trainmen would not be made until this evening, Wall Street heard this afternoon that the arbitration had resulted in the usual concessions to the employees and a partial victory for them. This report fixed the increase in wages at 10 per cent.

It was said that the board had established the principle that wages in the East should be as high as those paid for similar services in the West. The arbitration board held a meeting at the Hotel Manhattan this morning. Frank Milledale, speaking for the board, announced then that the award would not be filed in the United States District Court until the last minute this afternoon, and no announcement would be made at the courthouse even then. "Can you not give us some intimation of what the award will be?" he was asked.

"I doubt if even the board could give that yet," he replied. The members of the board include Seth Low, Chairman; Dr. John H. Finley, representing the public; W. W. Atterbury, Vice-President of the Pennsylvania, and A. H. Smith, Vice-President of the New York Central, representing the roads; and Lucius E. Sheppard, Vice-President of the Order of Railway Conductors, and Dr. L. C. Chase, editor of the organ of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, representing the union.

The hearings began on Sept. 18, and ended Oct. 10, and if the trainmen's demands are met, 73,266 railroad employees will receive an aggregate increase of $18,000,000 a year. Practically all the principal roads east of Chicago and north of the Potomac are affected.

GIRL WHO SOUGHT DEATH TO BE TRIED IN COURT

Child Tried to Commit Suicide Because Her Mother Had Whipped Her.

Paralyzed on her left side and slightly lame in one eye, little Susie Langenberger, the twelve-year-old child who attempted suicide because she said her mother punished her, was taken this afternoon from Fordham Hospital by officers of the Children's Society and will be arraigned to-morrow in the Children's Court as a delinquent.

Her departure from the hospital was marked not only by her own tears but by those of the nurses who have been in attendance upon her since the day of the shooting, July 2 last. Little Susie had become the great favorite of the institution.

Susie shot herself in her home, No. 417 East One Hundred and Seventy-third street, during her mother's absence. The removal of her left eye and the bullet from her brain saved her life. In the apartment the police found two communications from the little girl in which she explained her act. She said her mother had broken her heart by whipping her.

AMERICAN SUFFRAGETTE HAS BRAIN CONCUSSION

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Miss Zella Emerson, the American suffragette of Jackson, Mich., is lying seriously ill from concussion of the brain, the result of injuries received during a riot at Bow-bath in the east end of London on Nov. 5, according to an announcement made to-day by Mrs. Dacre Fox at the regular weekly meeting of the Women's Social and Political Union, a militant suffragette organization.

Miss Emerson had presided on Nov. 5 at a meeting at which was announced that a volunteer corps was to be organized for the protection of the militant suffragettes. Miss Sylvia Pankhurst was present, and when the police tried to arrest her a violent fight with sticks and clubs took place. In the course of which Miss Emerson was knocked down with a blow on the head.

Preferred Bullet to Tuberculosis. When Mrs. Lena Schwartz, proprietress of a lodging house at No. 172 Lexington avenue, did not hear Louis Bermudez, a young Spanish cigarmaker, moving about his room at 9:30 o'clock this morning she went to call him and found him dead in bed with a bullet wound in his right temple. Bermudez had frequently confessed to a dread of consumption and had had a lack of sleep recently.

Do You Get Up Tired Out after 8 or 9 hours' sleep? Tonic needed! Mouth tastes bad in the morning? Head aches? You feel listless, but know there's trouble? Look like you suffer from indigestion? Get immediate relief by taking a dose of MAN-A-SEA WATER. It will cure you. Send for Booklet.

MAN-A-SEA WATER CO. 100 N. 3rd St. N. Y. C.

MORSE TRIES TO SAVE MAN UNDER INDICTMENT

Former Ice King Intercedes With Judge Foster and Assistant Prosecutor Nott.

Charles W. Morse, the ex-ice king, was a visitor to the Criminal Courts Building to-day for the first time since his release from the Federal prison. He called to see Judge Warren W. Foster and Assistant District Attorney Charles A. Nott.

Mr. Morse told reporters that he was very much interested in a man who had been recently indicted and whom he believed was innocent of the crime charged against him. "It is simply one of many cases," Mr. Morse said, "that has been brought to my attention by friends. In this case I believe the man is innocent of any wrongdoing and I am willing to help him all I can."

At the District Attorney's office it was stated that Mr. Morse was interested in the case of Charles Holden, one of the men concerned in the case of Antonio Musica and his sons, half dealers, who were arrested in New Orleans after defrauding creditors in this city of nearly a million dollars.

WHITE SLAVER FOUND VICTIM AT MOVIE SHOW

Slip of Girl Lured Into Fake Marriage, Then Degraded in Paterson Brothel.

Moving picture theatres as a fertile recruiting ground for white slavers was shown by the Government at the opening this afternoon of the trial of five alleged violators of the Mann Act before Judge Hunt in the United States District Court. The victim was Fannie Fasn, a slip of a girl not long in this country who was a domestic until, at a movie show, she met Samuel Lemberg.

The contention of the Government is that after securing a marriage license under the name of "James Brown, of Lemberg, Austria," Lemberg went through a fake wedding ceremony and took a girl to Paterson, N. J., where he made her the inmate of a disorderly house. With him on trial are his brother, John Lemberg, Rosie Lemberg, his real wife, and Willie Klass.

Another alleged victim of Lemberg was Nellie Gross, and on trial with Lemberg in this case is Morris Gross, Nellie's husband. The arrest of the alleged slavers came after a police raid upon the Paterson house.

HIS SON HURT BY 'CAT,' HE SUES SCHOOL BOARD

Lad's Left Eye Destroyed and Father Begins Action to Recover $50,000.

Charles Bloomfield of No. 2933 West Twenty-third street, Coney Island, began suit to-day before Supreme Court Justice Manning and a jury in Brooklyn against the Board of Education for $50,000 damages on behalf of his twelve-year-old son, Emanuel, the sight of whose left eye was destroyed two years ago when he was struck by the "cat" with which some boys were playing in the yard of Public School No. 59 in Coney Island.

Witnesses, most of them schoolboys eleven and twelve years old, testified that Emanuel had been in the basement of the school until the antics of the boys there caused the janitor to drive them out into the danger zone of the yard, where the game was in progress.

Mr. Bloomfield bases his suit on the allegation that the Board of Education was guilty of carelessness in allowing such a game to be played in a crowded school yard.

A Snappy Seasoning It is necessary to the full enjoyment of a dinner.

LEA & PERRINS' SAUCE THE ORIGINAL WORCESTERSHIRE. A superior relish for Soups, Fish, Steaks, Chops, Sallads, etc.

AN APPEALER Sold by Grocers Everywhere

CHINESE RESTAURANT Cor. Duane St. and Bowery. The brightest spot in Chinatown. Complete alterations and new management. Our kitchen always open to visitors for inspection.

FALL OPENING To-Morrow, Tuesday (11 A. M.) Souvenir to Ladies on Opening Day. SPECIAL AFTERNOON TEA SERVICE. CHINESE CUISINE. Telephone 2074 Worth.

DIED. HUNT (nee Hannan)—ELIZABETH, beloved wife of John Hunt, native of New Castle, West County, Ireland. Coroner's Court, 501 West 11th St., Wednesday morning, at 10 o'clock; thence to St. Mary's Church, Interment Calvary Cemetery.

HELP WANTED—MALE. CHAPMAN—Wanted, a good character and able to take charge of a stock when the owner is absent. Address: 422 West 11th St., New York City.

White Rose CEYLON TEA White Rose Coffee, Rich and Pure

DWELLING IS WRECKED; MOTHER AND SON HURT BY FALLING ELM TREE

Firemen Have to Dig Mrs. Coward Out of the Ruins of Her Home.

Workmen, clearing a lot adjoining the home of Henry C. Coward, No. 803 Marcy avenue, East Orange, N. J., had a huge elm tree almost cut down in the midst of a high wind storm to-day. They had placed no guy ropes on it and the great tree pitched over toward the Coward home, on the porch of which stood Mrs. Coward and her seven-year-old son William.

Mrs. Coward saw the danger and tried to grab up her son and run, but before she had got off the porch the tree crashed down on the house. It wrecked the upper floor of the frame cottage and came smashing down on the roof of the veranda, crumpling up the light timbers as though they had been of cardboard and burying Mrs. Coward and her son in the wreckage.

The laborers ran over to the house and tried to release Mrs. Coward, who was unconscious, but she had been caught in such a way that they could not get her out. A call was sent for the fire company. Firemen came and with axes and ropes chopped and hauled away the debris until Mrs. Coward was liberated. An ambulance surgeon was waiting from the Orange Memorial Hospital. He found that Mrs. Coward's skull was fractured and he hurried her to the hospital, saying that she was in a dangerous condition.

Young William was badly cut and bruised, but no bones were broken. Harry Hanbury, up for contempt. Ex-Congressman Harry Hanbury, a Republican leader in Brooklyn, was arrested to-day and released in $5,000 bail because he refused to answer questions in the supplementary proceedings brought by the Russell Sage Foundation against Patrick H. Flynn, once a wealthy Brooklynite and builder of the Nassau street railway there, against whom the Foundation has a $50,000 judgment. Supreme Court Justice Benedict set Nov. 11 to hear argument as to whether or not Hanbury should be made to answer.

To Women Do Not Delay If you are convinced that your sickness is because of some derangement or because of a case distinctly feminine, you ought at once to bring to your aid

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription It acts directly on the organs affected and restores the entire system.

Ask Your Druggist Housemothers figure on that half that the double strength saves.

White Rose CEYLON TEA White Rose Coffee, Rich and Pure

"Storm Hero" Umbrellas IDEAL XMAS Cost from GIFTS $1 to $10

In Shape Again! For sale at Macy's, Greenhut-Segal, Cooper's, Bloomingdale's, The 14th Street Store, and at the residence of Battersman's, besides hundreds of other stores in Greater New York and throughout the country.

HOTELS AND RESTAURANTS. CHINESE RESTAURANT Cor. Duane St. and Bowery. The brightest spot in Chinatown. Complete alterations and new management. Our kitchen always open to visitors for inspection.

FALL OPENING To-Morrow, Tuesday (11 A. M.) Souvenir to Ladies on Opening Day. SPECIAL AFTERNOON TEA SERVICE. CHINESE CUISINE. Telephone 2074 Worth.

DIED. HUNT (nee Hannan)—ELIZABETH, beloved wife of John Hunt, native of New Castle, West County, Ireland. Coroner's Court, 501 West 11th St., Wednesday morning, at 10 o'clock; thence to St. Mary's Church, Interment Calvary Cemetery.

HELP WANTED—MALE. CHAPMAN—Wanted, a good character and able to take charge of a stock when the owner is absent. Address: 422 West 11th St., New York City.

White Rose CEYLON TEA White Rose Coffee, Rich and Pure

CHINESE RESTAURANT Cor. Duane St. and Bowery. The brightest spot in Chinatown. Complete alterations and new management. Our kitchen always open to visitors for inspection.

FALL OPENING To-Morrow, Tuesday (11 A. M.) Souvenir to Ladies on Opening Day. SPECIAL AFTERNOON TEA SERVICE. CHINESE CUISINE. Telephone 2074 Worth.

DIED. HUNT (nee Hannan)—ELIZABETH, beloved wife of John Hunt, native of New Castle, West County, Ireland. Coroner's Court, 501 West 11th St., Wednesday morning, at 10 o'clock; thence to St. Mary's Church, Interment Calvary Cemetery.

HELP WANTED—MALE. CHAPMAN—Wanted, a good character and able to take charge of a stock when the owner is absent. Address: 422 West 11th St., New York City.

White Rose CEYLON TEA White Rose Coffee, Rich and Pure